Rights and documents

- Governing documents: full rights, preferences, waterfall position, information rights, and transfer provisions are set forth in the Operating Agreement as amended by the Class C unit designation, together with the Subscription Agreement.
- Advisory pool: the Company maintains an advisory membership pool of up to 5% of the fully-diluted capitalization, issued as Class C-1 non-voting profits interests that are junior and subordinate to the Class C Units and subject to vesting and forfeiture. The pool is included in the pre-money fully-diluted base, so its dilution is borne by the existing members and does not reduce a Class C investor's negotiated percentage for this offering.
- Structure: the Company is an LLC and intends to remain one. The founder may elect to reorganize into a different structure at a later date; upon any such reorganization, Class C Units exchange into the corresponding equity of the successor entity under the Operating Agreement.
- How to proceed: accredited investors may request the subscription package and full data room access at invest@inpursuithealth.com.

This summary is for information only and is qualified in its entirety by the Operating Agreement, the Class C unit designation, and the Subscription Agreement, which control. It is not an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy securities, and no offer or sale will be made except through definitive subscription documents delivered to accredited investors. The units have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 or any state securities laws, are restricted, and involve a high degree of risk, including loss of the entire investment. Distributions are not guaranteed. No tax outcome is guaranteed; investors should consult their own advisors. Confidential.
